

→ MAKSER AS60

● DESIGN AND TECH BENEFITS The AS60 retains Makser's Airflow Stabiliser technology to help keep the head more stable as you swing. Its hard maraging steel face has generous "bulge and roll" and is designed to maximise energy transfer at impact. Triple sole inserts push the centre of gravity lower for easy ball-launching.

● SPECS R/H only in 15°, 18°, 21° or 24° lofts.

GM verdict For us this good-looker errs a touch on the large side for a true utility – but that's not to say it isn't a decent club. It left us a fraction less confident when taking on ambitious shots from thickish rough, so we'd probably see it as more of a fairway wood.

● PRICE £69.99 (s), £99.99 (g)

→ MD GOLF BLACK HAWK

● DESIGN AND TECH BENEFITS Successor to last year's model boasts the added benefit of a weight screw in the heel that serves two purposes. It helps counteract slice tendencies and adds to the weight in the sole area, making it easier to send the ball off on a higher, more controllable flight.

● SPECS R/H and L/H in 18°, 21° or 24° lofts plus R/H only 27°.

GM verdict Just like last year's Black Hawk to look down on, and equally impressive in action too. Felt like we struck every shot sweetly out of the middle. Effortless to hit, neat-looking and at £20 less than the Ram more than enough to seal the value vote.

● PRICE £39.99

→ PRESTIGE XDC 909

● DESIGN AND TECH BENEFITS This extension to Prestige's XDC range is engineered to make the long game easier by combining the feel and control of an iron with the distance of a fairway wood. It is designed to be extremely forgiving from the wide variety of lies you might expect to encounter in a typical round.

● SPECS R/H and L/H in 21° or 24° lofts plus R/H only 18° or 27°.

GM verdict Performance outstripped looks as we weren't keen on the two-tone head which was also larger than most. Easy to hit, lively off the face, but most noticeably, the highest flight here with all the potential benefits that means for long-game control.

● PRICE £59.99
